Start your engines! From January 18th to February 25th, 2021, the Northeast Florida Chapter of the Florida Engineering Society presents its 7th Annual Race for Relevance at the Autobahn Indoor Speedway!

The Race for Relevance is a fundraising event created to help support the future of the engineering profession by encouraging our youth to engage in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM). All the funds raised from the event go towards the Chapter's scholarship fund. Over the past six years, the event has raised nearly $40,000! With these proceeds, we have been able to award more scholarships to deserving students, including the newly added Don and Carol Ditzenberger Scholarship!

Due to COVID-19 recommendations and in hopes to not cancel this important program, the event will be hosted following social distancing guidelines for this year only! The races will be done in-person (on your schedule) with the awards and raffles held during a virtual event on Thursday, March 4th.

How it works:

1. Visit our new website www.fesr4r.com to choose your sponsorship level (see below) and register to race.
2. Choose your race time at Autobahn: Monday through Thursday, January 18th to February 25th, from 11am to 10pm.
3. Each team member will race twice, receive a gift, and a meal at the Autobahn restaurant.
4. Check the calendar and coordinate your race time with other teams.
5. Track race times on the live leaderboard! Additional races can be purchased to help improve your race time.
6. Purchase raffle tickets on the website and choose your prize. Winners will be announced on March 4th.
7. After 6 weeks of racing (and racing again), join us for a virtual awards night on March 4th. Each team will receive an awards night package delivered to your office.
